Foreword

As of 10 October 2010, Statistics Netherlands is responsible for the production and publication of statistics for the Caribbean Netherlands: Bonaire, St Eustatius and Saba. The Caribbean Netherlands in figures 2013 gives a statistical overview of the Caribbean Netherlands. It presents figures on some important aspects of society on the islands and gives a brief impression of areas such as population, education, justice and security, prices and many more. In addition to previously published figures, the new figures from the Omnibus survey are included. All statistics can be found on statline.cbs.nl, Statistics Netherlands' online database. For more information on the Caribbean Netherlands, visit our website: www.cbs.nl.

Introduction

Since Statistics Netherlands started collecting statistical information about the islands of the Caribbean Netherlands, four years ago, a lot has been accomplished. Compared with earlier editions of this brochure in 2012 and 2013, this edition encompasses many more subjects, expanding the 48 pages of the previous edition to more than 100 pages in this one. The main cause of the increased amount of available data is that new surveys have been carried out on the islands, such as the 2012 Caribbean Netherlands Labour Force Survey (LFS). The LFS resulted in information on the labour market, employment per sector of industry and unemployment. The 2013 Budget Survey aimed to get an insight into how households on the islands spend their money and thus adjust the calculation method for the consumer price index accordingly. In addition, the 2013 Omnibus Survey was held on all three islands. This survey comprised various themes, such as health and welfare, security, transport, and leisure. The 2014 brochure also includes data on other areas, such as incoming tourists via airports, international trade and gross domestic product (GDP) for Bonaire.

1. Bonaire

Bonaire is one of the so-called ABC islands of the Lesser Antilles. Some 18.5 thousand people live on the island, of whom 80 percent have the Dutch nationality. Most inhabitants – 58 percent – were born on one of the islands making up the former Netherlands Antilles or Aruba. Papiamentu is the main language of 64 percent of the population; 15 percent speak mainly Dutch, another 15 percent Spanish, and 4 percent English.
